WHO WE ARE

WE

are friendly.
are adventurous.
are problem solvers.

It all started in 1995 with some HTML, a database, and a dream. We built our first website in 1995 as part of ILAP, a Toronto based Internet Service Provider. After posting our first website live, the groundwork was laid for the eventual emergence of Trinitas, a separate division focused on delivering web and application development.

We continued to develop and build web applications under the ILAP name for several years. In 2004, Trinitas was formed as a separate division to focus solely on building and developing web applications. We believe in the marriage of design and technology to create easy to use, innovative web applications.

Although the names have changed (ILAP, ILAP Media, Trinitas) the fundamental goal of trying to simplify business processes for our clients using the web has not.

DEVELOPMENT PROCESS

We define, redefine, and explore with the Power of Three Trinitas utilizes a three step development process called the Power of Three to ensure each project is delivered on time and on budget. The Power of Three includes an Analysis Phase, Development Phase, and Maintenance Phase.

PRODUCTS

Forget about Gantt Charts and Diagrams

Trinitas was tired of working with Project Management Systems that were too complicated and cumbersome, so we developed our own.

FLO simplifies the Project Management process and virtualizes organizations. We don't believe you need fancy Gantt Charts or complex formulas to track a project. Strong communication is the key to success for any project. Flo allows you to stay connected with your office from anywhere in the world. Project tracking, timesheets, expense reports...it has it all.

Websites

We know how to build websites that get noticed, increase traffic, and attract new prospects. How do we do it? We built a magic website machine that does all the work for us. Actually we have a solid team of designers and developers that do all that.

Our development process always starts with an in-depth discussion and analysis of the objectives as well as a review of the competitors. Once the analysis and review period is over, the Trinitas team begins putting all the pieces together.

From micro sites to large corporate websites, Trinitas has the expertise to help any size organization make an impact on the web.

Branding

Image is everything. We have all heard it before. Trinitas understands the power of this concept and works hard to ensure your company gets noticed. We work with small to mid sized businesses that understand the power of their brand and what it means to their organization.

Let Trinitas help you design your next logo, business card and offline branding materials.
